

ATTACHMENT 2
COCOM Document 3690

Commodity Categories Under Swiss Law Concerning Manufacture and Trade in War Materials

Category I

1. Firearms with accessories and all instruments which can serve in the use of these arms, except hunting and sporting arms;
2. Launching and bomb-release instruments for military purposes;
3. Flame throwers and corresponding service instruments;
4. a. Ammunition for the arms under 1.) and for the launching and bomb-release instruments under 2.);
b. Explosive and incendiary bodies; explosives and powder;
c. Detonating agents and detonating installations (fuse mechanisms);
5. Direction-finding and sighting equipment; fire-control and ballistic direction instruments;
6. Detecting instruments for mines and duds;
7. Searchlights for military purposes;
8. Radar instruments;
9. Optical, acoustical and photographic equipment for military purposes;
10. Armored cars and special military vehicles, with or without armament;
11. Armor-plating for military purposes;
12. Starting components ("Antriebsaggregate") for military purposes. (Power plants for military use.)

Category II

1. Aircraft materials for military purposes;
2. Aircraft motors and machines with related components for military use;
3. Aircraft mountings for arms and built-in arrangements for ammunition as well as for target, observation, and photography apparatuses.

Category III

1. Chemical products for military purposes;
2. Smoke-screening material for military purposes;
3. Smoke-screening and spraying equipment for military purposes;
4. Gasmasks;
5. Circulation and breathing equipment and accessories for military purposes;
6. Gas shelter filters;
7. Filter elements for military purposes.

Category IV

1. Telephone and telegraph apparatuses and accessories for military purposes;
2. Cable and wire leads for military purposes;
3. Wireless transmitter and receiver installations, sound detectors, jamming, intercepting and garbling apparatuses, and direction-finding installations for military purposes;
4. Signal apparatuses and signal installations for military purposes;
5. Coding and decoding apparatuses.

Category V (Added by the decree of August 23, 1951)

1. Materials, installations and equipment which could be used for the fabrication of military devices, such as explosives, having a nuclear energy basis;
2. Machines for the transformation of the atomic nucleus for military purposes;
3. Equipment for the detection of radioactivity for military purposes;
4. Radioactive products for military purposes;
5. Filters, masks, and protective clothing for military uses, against radioactive substances.